The Democrats can't muster ambition enough to crow over their prospects this fall.

"The depths of misery, O, how great," will be the song sung by the Democratic party this campaign.

The reports which come from all parts of the Northern States to the National Republican Convention, are words of cheer.

The first business the Republicans will have to handle this fall will be to carry Maine, and Maine will be carried by the Republicans, too.

Republicanism is just booming in Ohio. The Republicans are sure of electing 13 out of the 21 Congressmen, and have strong hopes of two more.

There are two things in which the Democrats are solid—in counting out the Republicans in the South, and in the desire to get a good chance to plunder the national treasury.

Tilden and English would have made a good ticket, as the former would have a mortgage on the Democratic party and the latter a mortgage on the homes of the working people of Indiana.

It is said there will be over two hundred Democratic speakers put on the stump in Indiana this fall. It will require more than that number to clear up English's record on the mortgage question.

Some of the Democratic papers have been trying to make the public believe that Wade Hampton's Staunton's speech was a Republican campaign lie, but Wade Hampton says it was not, and he ought to know.

The "era of Democratic prosperity" which the Democrats want to see, has been tried in this country and the country does not want to see any more of it. It was "prosperity" to the plunderers, but death to the people.

There are already five lives of General Garfield issued from the press, and two or three more will appear within the next week or two. The story of Garfield's life is an interesting one, and should be read by every one who wishes to study the character of a great man, and to understand the secret of his great leap from the tow-path to the Presidency.

Here is another sample of a Southern speech, delivered on the 31st of July, at Kizer Hill, Alabama:

"The Confederacy still exists, my friends, and Jeff. Davis, the best friend we ever had, is yet our President and devoted to our interests, and if Hancock is elected, and we have no doubt he will be, you will be paid for all the property you have lost through Radical rule, and you must stand by the great Democratic party, for a solid South will now give us entire control of the General Government, and we can redress all our wrongs."

The Democrats may think this specimen may do them great injustice, but it is no worse or more extreme in sentiment than the speech of Wade Hampton, which will be found in this issue of the GAZETTE.

Of all the commanderies which attended the Triennial Conclave in Chicago, none came in more gorgeous style than those from the Pacific slope. They are made up of heavy men—financially heavy—and with all that, they are generous in the extreme, and hospitable far beyond the ordinary meaning of that term. The "spreads" which they had prepared for their friends were rich in variety and exceedingly bountiful in quantity. They are anxious to have the next Triennial Conclave held in San Francisco, and to encourage this movement they propose to make arrangements to settle the fares of the thousands of Knights from Omaha to San Francisco and return. This is a stretch of liberality very rarely, if ever, hown.

There was a very touching incident occurred during the recent journey of General Garfield from his home to New York and return, which is well worth relating. The Cleveland Herald tells it, editorally, as follows:

"There were those in his company who looked with misgiving upon the journey as one fraught with peril to the cause and to the candidate, and who watched closely every incident that occurred. In all the week they saw him removed from his calm repose of spirit but once, and that was when Congressman Williams spoke of the death of his father, and how with the death film gathering over his eyes he consigned his little children, of whom General Garfield was the youngest, to the care of their poor mother. Then the tears filled his eyes, and for a moment he covered his face with his hat to conceal the emotion he could not control from the thousands who were looking upon him.'

A pretty thorough canvass has been made of the State of New York, by the New York Times, as to the probable success of the Republican ticket in that State. Thirty-four counties out of 58 in the State have been heard from, and the result presents a strikingly impartial review of the political situation. The correspondents from whom these reviews were received are gentlemen who are capable of forming accurate opinions of the events of the day as they observed them. Many of them are prominent members of the communities in which they live, and are known for their calm judgment and truthfulness. From all the sections of that great State comes words of good will and cheer and encouragement for the Republican ticket. This canvass has settled one point and that is that the soldiers' vote will generally be cast for Garfield and Arthur; and while no soldiers, who are Republicans, have declared for Hancock, there are many soldiers who have been Democrats, who have publicly stated that they would support Garfield.

Special to the Gazette.

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—The Grand Encampment elected V. G. Benj. Dean, of Boston, Most Eminent Grand Master. It also selected San Francisco for the next conclave, three years hence.

HOSPITAL INVESTIGATION.

Special to the Gazette.

MADISON, Aug. 20.—The Hospital Investigating Committee had before them Steward McDill again this morning. He confessed to a general looseness in the books of the institution while they were under his charge, but pleaded, in extenuation, that he had so much to do that it was impossible to keep them straight.

Mr. Smith, the carpenter of the institution, was placed on the stand. He testified that the furniture made for the asylum could be bought cheaper on the market, but it was not as substantial and enduring as that made on the ground. He testified that an estimate by the Superintendent on the amount of lumber used on the barn was 40,000 feet, when nearly one hundred and thirty thousand was used. He testified that he paid no rent for house or hotel at Mendota station.

"BROTHER GARFIELD."

The Members of the Christian Church Nearly Unanimous for Him.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 18.—The Hon. William H. Graham, of this city, has just returned from an extensive tour in Ohio and Indiana. He is a close and accurate observer of men and affairs, and what he says may be depended upon. Mr. Graham says there is no doubt of a Republican success in Ohio. As for Indiana, he is of the opinion that Garfield and Arthur will pull through by a handsome majority. Mr. Graham is a member of the Christian, or Campbellite church to which General Garfield belongs. He visited large numbers of his fellow believers in Southern Indiana, and says they are nearly all enthusiastic for "Brother Garfield."

Many emphasized the fact that they were Democrats, but intended to vote for the Republican nominee for President. The denomination in question had by the last census (that of 1870) in Indiana 455 organizations, and 377 edifices, with 122,775 sittings, and about 40,000 communicants. Allowing one-third of these to be voters, it will be seen that their feelings or predilections may have an important influence in settling the results of the election in November. Mr. Graham says he met scores of Democrats who declared they would not vote for English because of his life-long oppression of the poor, of which the court records of Indianapolis furnish ample evidence.

INDIANA.

That Troublesome Decision.

WASHINGTON, D. C., August 18.—Information of the most trustworthy character has reached this city that the movement among certain prominent Indiana politicians to secure a rehearing of the election question by the Supreme Court of that State is a strong one, and of an exceedingly persistent character. The denials in connection with the matter which have appeared in print in Indianapolis are not credited by the Democrats here. In fact, they are known by them to be made in the face of facts. Two classes are at work in this matter in the State. One comprises those who from the first opposed the view finally indorsed by the Court, and who have never ceased denouncing it among themselves, and the other is made up of those who are beginning to fear the result in October, and the effect of defeat upon the States voting in November. The latter body of opponents to the Court is receiving many approvals of its position from Democrats outside of the State, who share the fears in regard to defeat in October.

CENSUS IN THE SOUTH.

Possibility that a New Count will be Made in the South.

WASHINGTON, August 18.—While the census officials are loth to admit that anything is wrong with the enumeration in the South, they express a determination to have certain suspicious counties renumerated under the supervision of agents sent from Washington. In this it will be very easily determined whether there is any ground for such heavy gains. If sample counties taken in this way show fraud, probably the whole South will be gone over again, with provisions of such a character as to forbid cheating. Of course, Southern politicians will resent any such move, and if it is not accomplished before the Confederate Congress assembles again, the brigadiers will forbid it, on the score of economy or some other pretense.

GEN. GRANT.

His Endorsement of the Republican National Committee.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18—Gen. Grant has written to Senator Dorsey, Secretary of the Republican National Committee, in reply to an invitation from the Committee to attend a meeting of the National and Congressional Committees in New York, September 5. The letter is dated August 12, from Manitou Springs, Colo. He says: "It will be impossible for me to attend at that date, as I will hardly be home before the 5th of September, and besides I must go East the latter part of the month, and do not care to make two trips so near together, but you have my full sympathy in support of the ticket headed by Garfield and Arthur. I have lost no opportunity in saying what I could in private conversation in behalf of the ticket, and shall not."

CYCLONE.

A Lively One Devastates a Portion of Dakota.

ST. PAUL, Aug. 18.—Specials from Fargo, D. T., leave accounts of a terrible tornado that swept across the southern part of Cass county, making a track two miles wide, sweeping away buildings, crops, and farming machinery, and killing and injuring several persons. The names of the persons who were reported killed are not received, but two men were badly hurt. John Lynch and a man named Lane were brought down here to-night. Thousands of bushels of grain were destroyed.

KELLY FOR GARFIELD.

MONTPELIER, Vt., Aug. 18.—The Republicans of Vermont have received a spasm of encouragement to-day from an assuring communication from New York, that John Kelly is preparing to come out with all his force and influence for Garfield and Arthur. The statement is a strange one, in view of past rumors of peace and harmony which followed the Cincinnati Convention, but the managers of the Republican campaign, while they will not now divulge the source of their information, claim that the assertion is true beyond the shadow of a doubt. It is suspected that Hooker, of Brattleboro, who is one of the managers of Republican Headquarters in New York, is authority for the statement. The Colonel is not given to exaggeration, and if the statement is from him it is undoubtedly correct.

RAILROAD COLLISION.

ST. PAUL, August 18.—A special from Hudson, Wis., says: A fearful collision took place this afternoon at Roberts, a station about eight miles out, which resulted in throwing twenty-three loaded cars from the track, and obstructing all through trains for several hours. Freight train No. 5, being behind time, was backing up from the station, when freight No. 7, came thundering around the curve and struck the head train square in the rear. No. 7's engine is totally destroyed, and the twenty-three cars piled in all directions, and intermixed with furniture, merchandise, door-blinds, etc. Several of the cars are smashed beyond hope of recognition, and the loss cannot be less $50,000.

ADELAIDE NEILSON.

An Interview With Her Attending Physician.

PARIS, Aug. 18.—The remains of Miss Neilson have left the Morgue, and are now on their wey to England. There is no doubt whatever that she died of dropsy of the heart. Both the doctors who attended her agree on this point. The strange suspicion of Dr. Pannel, who was called in to attend the deceased, appears to have been perfectly gratuitous. Great indignation is felt at at this action in the matter. I have had an interesting conversation with Dr. Monnier to-night on the subject. He says: "When I was first called in, at about 4 o'clock on Saturday afternoon, I found Miss Neilson's whole system thoroughly upset; no pulse was perceptible. There was great internal irritation and a stifling sensation in the chest. I applied hot bricks and poultices, and gave her an infusion of tilleul containing a few drops of laudanum. She rallied for a short time, and was taken ill again with cold perspiration and syncope."

Dr. Monnier is led to believe, from certain symptoms, that a mental trouble was connected with her illness. He asked the patient if there was anything on her mind. She replied, "Yes." While Dr. Monnier was attending her a bat flew into her room through the open window. Miss Neilson was much alarmed. "Look at that. Great bird flying about me," she exclaimed, in a terrified tone. The intruder was not got rid of without difficulty.

After Dr. Monnier's departure, Dr. Gautilion was summoned. He approved his confrere's treatment, but ordered colquinte pills besides. Miss Neilson's end was calm, but suffered terribly for hours before it.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 19, 1880.

AN EXCITING SCENE.

How a Railway was Saved from Bankruptcy by the Fastest Time on Record.

Seventy-Five Miles an Hour.

I am a railroad engineer. Away along in '57, during the great panic, I was running on the F. & C. Railroad. The railroad companies were going under in all directions. Every day we heard of new failures and quite often in a quarter where we least expected it. Our road was generally looked upon as one of the most substantial in the nation; nobody seemed to have any fears that it would fail to survive the general smash-up; but yet I did not fully share in the general confidence. Wages were cut down, arrearages collected, and a great many other little matters seemed to indicate to me that the road had got into rather deeper water than was agreeable all around. Among other things, the master mechanic had told me in the spring that the company had ordered four first quality Taunton engines for the fall passenger business. The road was put in the very best condition and other preparations were made to cut down the time and put the trains through quicker than was ever known before, when the new engines should come. Well, there was but one of the engines came.

I said there was but one engine came; but she was, in my opinion, altogether the best ever turned out of the Taunton works; and that is saying as much as can be said in praise of any engine. She was put in my charge immediately, with the understanding that she was mine.

It was Saturday when she came out of the shop, and I was to take a special train up to Y——. The train was to carry up the President and several officers of the road to meet some officers of another road, which crossed ours there, and arrange some important business with them.

I had no trouble at all in making my forty miles an hour going out. The engine handled herself most beautifully. We were just holding up at Y——, when Aldrich, the Treasurer, who had come out on the platform to put the brake on, slipped and fell. As we were still under good headway he was much injured, and was carried off to the hotel insensible.

According to the President's direction I switched off my train, turned my engine, and stood ready to start back to C—— at a moment's notice.

Aldrich's presence was of so much importance that the business of the road could not be transacted without him; so all those I had brought out, except the President and Aldrich, went back to C—— on the 3 o'clock express train. This was the last regular train which was to pass over the road until next Monday.

Early in the evening I left the machine in charge of my fireman and went over to an eating-house to see if I could not spend the time more pleasantly than on my engine. The hours dragged themselves away slowly. I was playing a game of dominoes with the station agent when in came Roberts, the President, in a great state of excitement.

"Harry," said he to me, "I want you to put me down in C—— at 12 o'clock."

As it was nearly 11 o'clock then, and the distance was nearly seventy-five miles, I thought he was joking at first; but when we got outside the door, he caught me by the arm, and hurried me along so fast that I saw he was in earnest.

"Harry," said he, "if you don't set me down in C—— by 12 o'clock I am a ruined man, and this road is a ruined road. Aldrich is dead; but he told me, before he died, that he had embezzled from time to time $500,000 of our money, and his clerk is to start with it on the 12 o'clock boat from C——for Canada. If we don't have that money on Monday morning, to make some payments with, the road goes into other hands; and if you put me down in C——at the right time, so that I save the money, you shall have $5,000. Understand it, Harry. Five thousand dollars."

Of course I understood it. I saw now the reason why the wages had been cut down; I understood it all, and my blood boiled. I felt that I would save the road if I lived, and told Robert so.

"See that you do it, Harry!" he replied, as he climbed up on the steps of the coach, which was coupled to my engine.

I sprang up into the footboard, got up the switch-tender to help my fireman, opened the throttle, and just as she commenced moving looked at my watch—it was just 11 o'clock, so that I had one hour to make my seventy-five miles in.

From Y——to C——there were few curves on the road; but there were several heavy grades. I was perfectly acquainted with every rod of it; so that I knew exactly what I had to encounter, and when I saw how the engine moved I felt very little fear for the result.

The road, for the first five miles was an air line, and so smooth that my engine flew along with scarcely a perceptible jar. I was so busy posting myself up as to the amount of wood and water aboard, etc., that we danced by the first station almost before I was aware of it, having been five minutes out, and having five miles accomplished.

"You are losing time!" yelled a voice from the coach. I looked around, and there stood Roberts with his watch in his hand.

I knew very well that we would have to increase our speed in some way if we carried out our plans of reaching C—— by midnight, and I looked anxiously around to see what I could do to accomplish that purpose. She was blowing off steam fiercely at 110 pounds; so I turned down the valve to 200, for I knew we should need it all to make some of the heavy grades which lay between us and C——.

It was three miles to the next station. With the exception of a few curves the track was as good as the last. As we darted around what commonly seemed to be a rather long curve at the station, but which was, at our high speed, short enough, I looked at my watch, and we had done it in two minutes and a half.

"Gaining," I shouted back to Roberts, who was yet standing on the platform of the coach.

"Look out for the heavy grades," he replied, as he entered the car.

The next six miles rose gradually from a level the first, to ten and a half feet grade at the last, which lay between us and the next station.

My fireman kept her full, and now she began to get hot. The furnace door was red and the steam raised continually, so that she kept up her speed and passed by the station like a streak of light in five minutes.

Now came nine miles like the last; over which she kept pace with her time, and passed the station in seven and a half minutes.

Here, for ten miles, we had a twenty foot grade to encounter; but the worst of it all was at this place we were obliged to stop for wood.

I was just going to speak to Roberts about it when I looked around and saw him filling the tender from the coach with wood which had been placed there before starting, while he was gone after me.

I believe we would have made this ten miles with the same speed as before, but through the carelessness of the fireman the fountain got opened, and the water rose in the boiler as to run the steam down to 100 pounds before I discovered where the difficulty was.

At first Roberts didn't appear to notice the decrease of speed, and kept at work at the wood as if for dear life. But presently he looked up, and, seeing that the speed had decreased, he shouted: "Harry, we are stopping!" and then, coming over to where I was, he said: "Why, here we have been ten minutes on the last ten miles, and I believe we will come to a dead stand if something is not done. The speed is continually slacking. What is the matter?"

I explained the cause. He was apparently satisfied with my explanation, and, after having tied down the safety valve, he climbed back over the tender, exhorting me to "put her through for God's sake, or we are all beggars together!"

Just then we passed the next station, having taken nine minutes for eight miles. We were now more than half over the road, but we had lost nearly ten minutes' time, and had left only twenty-seven minutes to do thirty-four miles in.

I had shut the water off from both my pumps a little distance back, when I discovered what was the matter, and she was now making steam finely down a slight grade. From less than 100 with which we had started over that ten-mile stretch, we had 200 pounds before we finished it; and, as the gauge indicated no higher than that, and the valve was tied down, I could not tell how much over 200 pounds she carried, but she certainly carried none less the rest of the journey. And well might she carry such an enormous head of steam, for, after passing over that ten miles in eight minutes, there lay ten miles of five-feet up-grade, and fourteen miles of twenty-feet-to-the-mile depression between us and C——, and it was now thirteen minutes to 12 o'clock.

Now the engine was in fair earnest. The furnace door, smoke arch and chimney all were red; while she seemed to fly onward as if the very evil one himself operated her machinery.

Six minutes carried us over that ten miles; and we darted by the last station that had lain between us and C——. Now we had fourteen miles to go and my time showed fifty-three minutes past 11 o'clock.

"If I live," said I to myself, "I will make it." And we plunged down that twenty foot grade with all steam on. Persons who saw the train in that wild ride said that it was so soon after they heard the first sound of her approaching, when the strange object, which looked as if it was a flame of fire, darted by, and then the sound of its traveling died away in the distance, that they could hardly convince themselves they had really seen anything. It seemed more like the creature of a wild dream than a sober reality.

And now let me tell you that no engine ever beat the time we made on those fifteen miles. Those great wheels, seven feet in diameter, spun around so swift that you could not begin to count the evolutions. The engine barely seemed to touch the track as she flew along; and although the track was true as it was possible for it to be, she swayed fearfully, and sometimes made such prodigious jolts that it required considerable skill for one to keep his feet. No engine could hold together if crowded to a greater speed.

Well, just as I came to a standstill in the depot at C—— the big clock boomed out 12, and the steamboat was getting her steam on. Roberts got on board in time and nothing to spare. But he saved the money. He found it hid away in some of the old boxes as Aldrich had directed him.

A very remarkable piece of work, considering its magnitude and the short space of time in which it was accomplished, was done on Tuesday of last week on the New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio Railroad. This road was almost the last in the country which used the wide six-foot gauge, and it has for some time been the purpose of the management to change this to the standard gauge. In order to make the road standard gauge throughout, arrangements were made to have the rails between Cleveland and Leavittsburg moved toward each other 7 3-4 inches each, the distance necessary to accomplish the desired result. In order to do this a force of 2,000 men was stationed along the line on Monday night, allowing forty-five workmen to each five miles. The men slept during the night alongside the track, and at 4 o'clock Tuesday morning the work was begun. To expedite matters, as many spikes had been pulled beforehand as safety would admit, and, when the work began Tuesday morning, it consisted in pulling five spikes to the rail, moving the rail in and spiking it in full. The entire distance between Cleveland and Leavittsburg is 222 miles, in addition to which are 45 miles of side track, making a total of 267 miles. The labor of moving the rails, as above indicated, would, therefore, be very great, but notwithstanding every difficulty, so complete had been the arrangements, and so perfectly carried out, that the entire work was completed at 2:30 in the afternoon. Thus, the regular business of the road was hindered only ten hours and twenty minutes, as, at 2:30 in the afternoon, narrow-gauge stock was put on and business resumed.—Philadelphia Ledger.

As the fasting doctor is causing a little commotion just now, perhaps it would not be uninteresting to your readers to read of another case which I think all will think marvelous, but which I believe to be strictly true, though not coming directly under my own observation.

It is of a woman living in the city of Lowell, Mass., from 1835 to 1845 inclusive. She was a mill hand, and boarded with a married sister. Her health became impaired; she became nervous and discouraged. On arising one morning she informed her sister she had had a vision, had seen a spirit, and the spirit told her she must fast forty days in order to regain her health. Her sister expostulated, and tried to dissuade her from making the attempt. But the vision again appeared to her with the same injunction. She took her bed, with instructions to her sister not to offer her a particle of food during forty days, as she firmly believed she would come out all right. The sister, who had sole charge of her, averred that she often moistened her mouth with a part of a teaspoonful of water, but did not use one quart of water all told during the whole time. At the expiration of the forty days she was informed her time was up. She began to take nourishment and rapidly recovered.

These facts had been related to me by my wife, who was acquainted with her. In one of our summer vacations we traveled through the section of country where this lady then resided. While stopping there for a few days, I called upon her to learn more of the particulars of her case. She was married, had two children, and was in the enjoyment of good health. I afterwards became well acquainted with many of her friends, and never heard a doubt expressed as to the truth of the statement that she fasted forty days as I have related.—B. F. Bowers, M. D., in N. Y. Sun.

Alligators and Fire.

One winter I was shooting plumed herons on the great savannas at the head of Indian River, Florida. My guide was the well known Judge Connor, once a Methodist clergyman. One morning, while riding over the vast prairie on horseback, we met an alligator longer than the moral law. "Shoot him," said the Judge.

"Oh, no," I replied; "I don't want to kill him. The report of the gun will scare up every heron within a mile, and I shall get no plumes."

"But, blast my buttons," said the Judge, "he eats my hogs and the young calves on the range. Shoot him."

"No," I answered; "I've come twenty miles for plumes, and I don't intend to go back without them."

"Well," said Connor, "you're the first Yankee I ever saw who won't pull a trigger on a gator."

"I'll take a look at him anyhow," said, as I hitched my horse to a palmetto midway between two creeks. The grass was high and rank. As I walked toward the reptile he raised himself on his four legs, opened his jaws, puffed out his throat like a bullfrog, and made a noise like the humming of a buzz-saw. I stopped ten feet away, and stamped and shouted. The Judge sat upon his horse, watching the proceedings. The alligator did not quail. On the contrary, he squatted close to the ground, and began to creep toward me as a cat would creep toward a mouse. Walking back to the palmetto, I gathered five or six of its huge dried fans, held them toward my body, struck a match, and set them ablaze. The ugly monster watched me like a dragon. I held the fans down, hiding the blaze, and marched toward him. His huge mouth was open, and looked like a newly-bricked tunnel. Within reach, I suddenly raised the fans, and thrust the blazing mass in his throat. He closed his ponderous jaws, turned tail, and ran. Lighting a fresh fan, I ran around him, setting the coarse dry grass of the savanna on fire. He was encircled with flames. He raised his body, gazed at the fire with bloodshot eyes, and then shuffled himself into the wet sand, and calmly awaited the result. There was a fair breeze from the northeast. In three minutes the fire had swept over him, burrying him in the blackened grass. He remained as he had planted himself. I went through the smoke, and touched him with the barrels of the gun, but he did not move. He seemed dazed. Possibly he had fainted. I remounted the horse, and we rode off. A hundred yards away we looked back. The monster had recovered, and was traveling leisurely over the smoking savanna toward a little stream that pours into the head of Indian River.

Two years before this I had visited Lake Worth, twelve miles below Jupiter Light. At that time Charles Moore, a jolly beachcomber, was the only person living on the shore of the lake. We went through the arm of the Everglades, and deposited our camp equipage and provisions on the hard sand at the northern end of the lake. The sand was fringed with huge rushes. We had hauled our boat over the strip of sand separating the waters of the lake from the Everglades, intending to run down to Moore's cabin before sundown. The wind, however, died away, and we concluded to camp for the night. We found a clear spot in the scrub, a hundred feet back from the shore. Ridge poles and crotched posts indicated that it was a favorite camping ground for the Seminoles. On returning to the beach I found a twelve-foot alligator crawling toward our bag of pork. A score of companions were anchored off the rushes, and one or two were following in his wake. On hearing my footsteps the old fellow turned and faced me. Our guns lay on a chest within three feet of him, and we were cut off from our base of supplies. Moore and Hammond, a Pennsylvanian who had preempted land on the lake, joined me. We shouted and heaved ridge-poles at the savage scoundrel, but it was no go. He held the pass, and his companions were moving on the pork. Something must be done, or we would be left without provisions. My eyes fell on a bed of dry palmettoes that had been used by the Indians. To gather and set them ablaze was the work of a few seconds. With the flaming mass we advanced on the great lizards. In the light of the blaze they retreated to the lake. We suspended the bag of pork from a tree that hung over the bank, and in the morning the sand looked as though an army brigade had been throwing up trenches.—Cor. N. Y. Sun.

When a customer comes in and looks at our goods, and after going around town and examining goods and prices in all the other clothing stores, comes back and buys of us, we think that is good evidence that we are selling a little better goods and at a little lower prices than anybody else. DAY'S Kidney PAD which supplies a want real of eminent ability have devoted years of study and experiment to find—a specific for diseases of the Kidneys, Bladder, Urinary Organs and Nervous System—and from the time of its discovery has rapidly increased in favor, gaining the approval and confidence of medical men and those who have used it; it has become a favorite with all classes and wherever introduced has superseded all other treatments.

DISEASES OF THE KIDNEYS

are the most prevalent, dangerous and fatal affections that afflict mankind, and so varied and intricate in their character, that persons often suffer for a long time before knowing what ails them. The most characteristic symptoms are gradual wasting away of the whole body, pain in the back, side or loins; a weak, feeble, exhausted feeling, loss of appetite and dread of exercise; scanty and painful discharge of variously colored urine; inability to retain or expel the urine; minute shreds or casts in the urine; and, when the disease is of long duration, there is much emaciation and general nervous prostration.

THE ONLY CURE,

We say positively, and without fear of contradiction, that DAY'S KIDNEY PAD is the first and only infallible cure for every form of Kidney disease. It is the best remedy yet discovered for this complaint, and more effectual in its operation than any other treatment. By using faithfully and persistently no case will be found so inveterate as not to yield to its powerful remedial virtues.

IS STRONGLY ENDORSED.

We have the most unequivocal testimony to its curative powers from many persons of high character, intelligence and responsibility. Our book, "How a Life was Saved," giving the history of this new discovery, and a large record of most remarkable cures, sent free. Write for it.

DAY'S KIDNEY PAD are sold by druggists, or will be sent by mail, free of postage, on receipt of Dairy size Regular, $2 50; Special, for obstinate cases of long standing, $3 00; Children's, $1.50. Address, DAY KIDNEY PAD CO., Toledo, O.

CAUTION. As Day's Kidney Pad is working a sale on our reputation, we deem it due the afflicted to warn them. Ask for DAY'S KIDNEY PAD, take no other, and you will not be deceived.

☞ KIDNEGEN is highly recommended and unsurpassed for WEAK or FOUL KIDNEYS, DROPSY, BRIGHT'S DISEASE, LOSS of ENERGY, NERVOUS DEBILITY, or any OBSTRUCTIONS arising from KIDNEY or BLADDER DISEASES. Also for Yellow Fever, Blood and Kidney Poisoning, in infected malarial sections.

☞ By the distillation of a FOREST LEAF with JUNIPER BERRIES and BARLEY MALT we have discovered KIDNEGEN, which acts specifically on the Kidneys and Urinary Organs, removing injurious deposits formed in the bladder and preventing any straining, smarting sensation, heat or irritation in the membranous lining of the ducts or water passages. It excites a healthy action in the kidneys giving them strength, vigor, and restoring these organs to a healthy condition, allowing the effects under the color and easy flow of urine. It can be taken at all times, in all climates and under all circumstances without injury to the system. Unlike any other preparation for Kidney difficulties it has a very pleasant and agreeable taste and flavor. It has been difficult to make a preparation containing positive diuretics properties which will not nauseate, but be acceptable to the stomach. Before taking any Liver medicine try a bottle of KIDNEGEN to CLEANSE THE KIDNEYS from foul matter. Try it and you will always use it as a family medicine. Ladies especially will like it, and Gentlemen will find KIDNEGEN the best Kidney Tonic ever used.

THE HILL OF LIFE.

WE only ask, my heart and I,
A little peace, a little rest;
We've traveled far, my heart and I,
And none responds to our request.
The hill of life is steep and high,
And thorns the grasses underlie,
We know it well—my heart and I.

We've had our foes, my heart and I;
We've had our loves, my heart and I,
Where friendship ends,
We've bid a hundred loves good-by,
We've seen a hundred friendships die,
Aye, that we have—my heart and I.

We've met with scorn, my heart and I;
We've met with praise;
When envy let his arrows fly
To mar our days,
We'd laugh to see them pass us by;
If cunning forged a subtle lie,
We would his fiendish aim defy,
And toil our foes—my heart and I.

When beauty, blushing sweet and shy,
Would, unaware,
Pierce my warm heart with glances sly,
We'd shun the snare.
Old trout avoid the angler's fly,
And faithless hearts would vainly try
To separate my heart and I.

Now here we are, my heart and I,
While far below
We hear the murmuring nation's cry,
And reap and sow;
We've sown and reaped, my heart and I,
And only ask in peace to die.
God grant us rest, my heart and I!

HOME AND FARM.

A LITTLE saleratus is used in making mush, to prevent the slightly raw taste which corn meal has when hastily boiled.

STALE BREAD GRIDDLE CAKES.—Take stale bread, soak it in water till soft, strain off the water through a colander, beat the bread-crumbs lightly with a fork; to one quart of these soaked crumbs add one quart of milk, one quart of flour and four eggs. Bake on a griddle.

CURRANT SAUCE.—Heat the currants slowly almost to a boil, and turn into a colander, allowing all the juice possible to drain off without pressing. Measure the fruit, and to each quart add one pound of sugar, one cupful of raisins, and water to thin the sauce. If one prefers plenty of water, it may be necessary to add more sugar.

ONE of the most useful implements that can be used upon the farm is the field-roller. It crushes the clods, levels and smooths the ground, and presses the earth firmly around the seed, causing it to sprout and grow much earlier. In very dry weather a good rolling of the ground will often cause seeds to grow which otherwise would not have germinated.

LICE ON ANIMALS.—Col. F. D. Curtis commends the following mixture to kill lice on animals: "Melt hog's lard or any hot grease, and in it dissolve salt one-third of the bulk of the grease; take as much grease as will be required to smear the animal all over, and into the mixture pour kerosene oil and stir it up. Two gills of the kerosene would be sufficient for a cow of ordinary size. One application completely cured the most stubborn case of lice on an old hog. It leaves the skin smooth and clean, removing the scurf and healing the irritation caused by the parasites. It is also excellent for galls and sores."

FRUIT-CREAM.—Apples, gooseberries, rhubarb, or any fruit; to every pint of pulp add one pint of milk or cream; sugar to taste; prepare the fruit as for stewing; put it in a jar with two tablespoonfuls of water and a little good moist sugar, set this jar in a saucepan of boiling water, and let it boil until the fruit is soft enough to mash; when done enough, beat it to a pulp, work this pulp through a colander, and to every pint stir the above proportion of milk or cream. Of course, cream is preferable. Sweeten and serve in a glass dish.

IN CLOSE QUARTERS.

How a Man Came Near Owning Denver.

EARLY in 1859 Charles Collins wrote a book about the then unknown country Colorado, and Pike's Peak, in which he gave a glowing picture of the whole region. This book had a good deal to do with stimulating emigration. After the rush to Pike's Peak had been going on for some time, Collins, with the late A. D. Richardson, set out for that place. Collins kept distributing his book all along the route and collecting his subscriptions at the ranches previously canvassed, until after some days of travel both began to be aware of the fact that a great many of the emigrants, who had gone out weeks before, seemed to be returning. Their wagons no longer bore the bold inscription, "Pike's Peak or Bust," but it was transformed to this effect, "Pike's Peak Busted." The two travelers, unaware of the depth of chagrin and significance behind this, thought little of it until they had traversed about one-half the route, 300 miles from St. Joseph. Here was a famous stopping place, known as Jack Morrow's Ranch, a place where Collins and Richardson had determined to put up at that night. Collins, who was well acquainted with Morrow, got some distance ahead of Richardson, in whose wagon, beside himself and the driver, were a number of emigrants, also bent on trying the new country.

Collins, as he drove up to Morrow's Ranche, was considerably surprised at the sight. The place was every where swarming with miners and emigrants, all excited and savage about something or another. There was loud talking every where, and loud threats about somebody who in every breath came in for the most violent and bitter execration. Collins was about to toss one of his books to Morrow, who came forward hastily when he saw him, and getting up close to him he said, in a voice husky with suppressed excitement:

"Collins, git!"

"What do you mean?" said Collins, excited.

"Git out of here quick," said the excited ranchman, as he waved his hands and disappeared.

Collins, now thoroughly aroused, thrust his book back under his seat and bade his driver get out and mingle with the crowd and find what was the matter. In a few minutes the driver returned with a face white as a ghost, and told Collins that the miners were offering a reward of $2,000 for the bodies of Collins and Richardson, dead or alive. Having heard that they would be along that way they had come to a stop at Morrow's Ranche and secured a couple of ropes, intending to hang them.

Collins quietly slid down from his buggy and sauntered out to the edge of the crowd. Here he heard himself and Richardson denounced in the most unsparing manner. Seeing there was no time to lose, he instructed his driver to strike another route, while he himself circled around the crowd until he reached some tall grass, when he took to his heels. After running for more than a mile he stopped. Like a flash the question crossed his mind, where was Richardson? He turned around and struck across diagonally for the old route, in reaching which, some distance from Morrow's Ranche, he presently met Richardson's team moving along leisurely. It required but an instant for Collins to inform him of the true state of affairs, hearing which he was not less frightened than Collins himself. The result was that they struck off on a new route, and finally reached Denver without further adventure. Denver was then a settlement of about one thousand inhabitants, all living in tents. Soon after their arrival there the two pre-empted 120 acres of land each. Becoming disgusted afterward, they threw up the land again. To this day Collins brings his fist down on his knee and says with an empatic air of comic regret: "And fools that we were, this land is now the heart of the town and sold in less than ten years afterward for a thousand dollars an acre."

SCIENCE AND INDUSTRY.

CREMATION appears to be making rapid progress in Germany. Fifteen cremations were performed last year at Gotha, and forty-eight bodies have been burned in Milan during the past three years.

EXPERIENCE has shown at the Petroleum Iron-works, Titusville, Pa., that a barrel of petroleum will generate heat sufficient for making a ton of iron, while a ton and a quarter of coal would be required for the same result.

M. MELSENS, of Paris, recommends, for the protection of workmen handling lead and mercury compounds, small daily doses of iodide of potassium. This salt, he says, dissolves the lead or mercurial compounds and effects their removal.

FROM the fact that the lower animals arrive at maturity much earlier than man, and the inferior races of men develop more rapidly than the superior, a French biologist infers that precocity indicates a low order of development.

WHEN the system begins to need nutriment, it sends a fluid from every portion of the body toward the stomach, where it accumulates in little reservoirs, the distension of which causes the sensation of hunger; the fuller they become the more hungry we are.

BY the use of a mixture of carbonate and sulphate of soda, Dr. Calantariento, of Scarborough, England, has been able to make a new skating surface, which costs far less than the ordinary artificial ice floors, and which can be readily repaired. When it is once laid it will remain serviceable for years.

A BILL has been introduced into the local Legislature of Montreal to incorporate a company to construct a tunnel between the north and south banks of the St. Lawrence at that city. The tunnel is to be used by provincial and American railways, as well as by vehicles and pedestrians. The capital is $5,000,000. Five years will be required for the completion of the work, if it is ever begun. The Grand Trunk is offering vigorous opposition in the interest of Victoria Bridge, of which it has a monopoly, and charges such high tolls that other means of outlet from the city are absolutely necessary.

DR. EDWYN ANDREW, of Shrewsbury, Eng., has pointed out the advantages in certain surgical and medical cases of employing medicated ice. He thought the cold was rendered more effective by being combined with the active principles of drugs and by freezing various medical solutions. In that manner ice might be rendered highly antiseptic, caustic or styptic. In medical cases, especially of the throat, stomach and hemorrhages from internal organs, ice might be thus pleasantly used to relieve symptoms, and at the same time convey medicine as food to the stomach, when the latter would resist them in any other way.

DR. LANDOTT, Assistant Director of the Ophthalmological Laboratory of the Sorbonne, Paris, has lately invented an instrument for measuring the distance to inaccessible objects. It is, in fact, a telemeter, and generally resembles the heliometer in principle, but differs therefrom in the fact that the mensuration is obtained by doubling the image of the object. This is effected by simpler means than in the heliometer, and consequently the instrument can be more readily applied to practical purposes. By this means the diameter of a rod at the top of a lofty building can be gauged to a hundredth part of a millimeter, and the distance of an inaccessible object in motion can be easily ascertained. It is expected that the instrument will be of great use in military operations.

HUMAN VITALITY.

An Expressman Who Survived With Three Bullets in His Head.

As a specimen of human vitality, says the Boston Herald—a man who seems to be utterly proof against powder and bullets—probably North Adams possesses the champion of the world. The Western man, whom the Herald told about a few months since as having survived a dislocated neck, and the murderer who had to be extinguished on a Connecticut scaffold twelve hours after he had pierced himself through the heart, furnish no more remarkable instances of the occasional tenacity of life than does Mr. Thomas A. Halpine, the North Adams agent of the American Express Company. For nearly ten years he has survived and attended to business with no less than three large bullets buried in his head to such a depth as to be beyond the reach and rescue of the most skillful surgeons in the country. It was on the night of the 16th of January, 1871, that he was attacked while engaged as an express messenger between Albany and Boston, and his assailant was an old-time Boston and Albany baggagemaster (and subsequently an expressmen between Springfield and Boston), popularly known as "Yank" Filkins. "On the evening named," says Halpine in a modest way, "I went to the office and made preparations for my usual trip to Boston. It was a clear, bright moonlight night, and I was feeling unusually cheerful and happy, as this was the last trip in the week, and the next was my week off. My wife and myself had promised ourselves several little pleasure trips during the coming week, and as I left home that night I said to her: 'This is my last trip, you know,' little dreaming what was in store for me. When I got into the car I found the stove was smoking, so I opened both doors to let out the smoke, and they remained open for several minutes. Just as the train started from the depot I heard a noise, and, looking up, discovered a man coming into the car. He said: 'Hello! is that you?' At first I thought it was Woodward, the other messenger on the route, and I inquired: 'Where are you going, Woodward?' He replied: 'Oh, just across the river.' I had not taken a look at him until this reply, but the unfamiliar tone of his voice caused me to look up again, when I saw he was a stranger. Upon this I said: 'I do not know you. I never saw you before. What is your name?' 'Jones,' said he, 'and I have run a great many trips for this company.' Then he inquired, 'Where do you make your first stop?' Thinking he was an old expressman, and a friend of Woodward's, only going across the river, and without the remotest idea that there was any thing wrong about him, I turned my head and commenced looking over my waybills, when bang went a pistol and down I went. In an instant I knew what Jones was, but it was too late. I was down and the blood was spouting from my mouth. My thoughts flew rapidly: and I knew in a few minutes we would be in at the East Albany depot, and I thought if I could get hold of him I could hold on until we got there. I arose on my knees, and, looking up, saw he was standing right over me with his pistol pointed at my head. Instantly I heard the report, saw the dash, and down I went again. While lying on my back he stooped over, and, placing the muzzle of the pistol close to my ear, fired a third time. That fixed me, and I was unconscious for a few minutes. When I came to the train was standing still. By a tremendous effort I got on my feet, walked to the center of the car and seized the bell-rope, thinking to ring the bell on the engine and attract attention; but I had not sufficient strength and fell to the floor. I, however, managed to crawl to the door, which 'Jones' had left open when he jumped out. I tried to shout, but could not. Just then the engineer was getting upon his engine, and looking back, saw my head come out of the door. He came back and found me insensible. I knew that I had been shot three times in the head, and the last shot I thought had blown my head all to pieces. The remembrance of it is horrible. The first shot entered on the right side below the ear and middle of my neck. It passed through and lodged under the left jaw-bone. The second shot entered my head just under the right eye, and the third entered my right ear, and none of the balls have been extracted." When Mr. Halpine had somewhat recovered from the shock he gave a description of his assassin to Conductor Sargent and Baggagemaster Colson, and a few days afterwards Filkins was arrested. Suspicion, however, was first directed to him on account of his movements and the tracing of the purchase of the fatal pistol. He was sent to the State-prison, but subsequently escaped. Halpine, as already intimated, fully recovered, and experiences no ill effects from the cargo of ammunition in his brain, except in very stormy weather. He believes, with many others, that Filkins is yet alive, and faintly cherishes the hope of some time meeting him.

OUR NEW DRESS.

To-day the GAZETTE appears in its new, clean suit of clothes, and steps out upon the street, and enters the houses of its patrons and friends, with due confidence that it will be given an even heartier welcome than has greeted it day after day for years in the past. The new type is from the celebrated house of Marder, Luse & Co., Chicago, who furnished the new dress for the GAZETTE some years ago, and now, as then, they give us the latest and the best to be had, and such as we feel justly proud in presenting to the public.

Another important change is made to-day. Not content with giving their patrons the benefit of constant improvements, the proprietors of the GAZETTE have this day reduced the price of the daily to $7 per year, thus giving them a share in the prosperity, which has been won by enterprise and hard work. At this price the GAZETTE takes acknowledged rank, as not only the best, but the cheapest daily of its size in the State of Wisconsin, and the liberal support which it is receiving is the sure promise that it will ever hold this position.

Although thus prospered and prospering, the GAZETTE will not be allowed to rest even where it is. As fast as possible, improvements will be introduced in all departments, and the promise is made that its readers and patrons shall continue to find it keeping abreast of the leading papers of the country in its business enterprise and its journalistic reliability.

BRIEFLETS.

—New clothes.

—How do you like them?

—It's a poor way to get up in the world by getting down on the world.

—Prayer meeting night. Watch as well as pray, for the noisy boys on the sidewalk.

—All members of the Endowment rank are requested to meet at Castle Hall this evening at 8 o'clock sharp.

—Remember the dance of Rock River Encampment No. 3, I. O. O. F., at Apollo hall, this evening. It will be a good one, sure.

—Justice Brooks yesterday decided that to call a man "a dirty black dog" was worth about $1 and costs. Other colored dogs might be cheaper.

—Janesville has so far escaped the bicycle mania. Its young men dislike to go it alone, and prefer a buggy seat even if it is rather narrow for two.

—Prof. Porter, the weather recorder of Beloit college, says yesterday was the hottest day there for the past six years, the thermometer showing from 96 to 98 degrees.

—E. W. Hilt's new partner in the morocco factory is James Bear, instead of Barry. We trust he will bear and forbear with the way the types have frolicked with his name.

—A kerosene lamp in Mrs. Brand's house in Beloit exploded Tuesday evening, and started a blaze, but it was suppressed before it had done any further damage than the burning up of a feather bed.

—The campaign flag of the Republican Club has arrived, and is resting at the GAZETTE office, while arrangements are being made to unfurl it to the breeze. It is of goodly size, being twenty-six feet in length, and is a beauty.

—Mark Collins, who was complained of for creating a nuisance by throwing some cider dregs into an alleyway, had his case presented to a jury in Justice Nolan's court this morning, and they acquitted him promptly.

—Dr. Frothingham, of London, England, the English specialist, late of San Francisco, California, has arrived in our city, and will open his office at the Myers house next Monday morning. A more extended notice will appear in Saturday's issue.

—Mrs. McHenry is busy with the school census. She struck it big day before yesterday. In just "one patch" she enrolled 202 in four hours, by the watch, and the neighbors say it's been rather sickly too for children in that part of the city this summer.

—A young man giving his name as Julian Spicer, was picked up by Officer McGinly last evening, wandering about the streets and looking for the river. He seemed to be wandering in his mind also, and word was sent to Milton where he says his mother is visiting.

—Those who find keys in and about the postoffice should hand them to the postoffice clerks, who will place them, without charge, in the box of the person to whom they belong. Each postoffice key has a number stamped on it, and the department has a registry showing to which box it belongs. In this way those who lose keys can get them again without expense or trouble.

—Three old residents of this county died yesterday Mrs. Hiram Turner, of Beloit, aged 64 years; Mrs. Cynthia Olmsted, who was visiting at Rockton, at the time of her death, and was aged 78 years, and Deacon E. L. Stowe, who died at Clinton, aged upward of 70 years.

—"The New Testament View of Human Destiny," will be presented by Rev. G. W. Lawrence, at the Harmony Town Hall, Sunday, August 22, at 11 a. m.

—Mr. D. B. Emerson and family, of Newark, are slowly recovering from the effects of the accident of last Saturday, and desire to express thanks to the people of Afton for their kindness and help in the hour of sore need. Anabel, the eight year girl, whose lower jaw bone was fractured under the left ear, is as patient and cheerful as possible, while little three year old Nellie, whose skull was fractured, over the right eye, does not seem to think much about it, but is playing as happy as ever.

PERSONAL.

—A. Hoskins has returned from his Eastern trip.

—Ex-Senator Davis, of Beloit, was in the city to-day.

—Dr. Post, of New York city, arrived in the city to-day.

—Obe Lusk left to-day for a few days' visit at Fond du Lac.

—Thomas Johnson, who has been quite ill, is able to be out again.

—Mrs. V. M. Green and Miss Flora Green, of Baltimore, are in the city, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Chase.

—General Manager Bishop, of the New York and New Haven railroad company, arrived to-day, with his family, in a special car, which was sidetracked here while leisure was given for viewing the city. The party had their car attached this afternoon to the 3:40 train on the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul road, and headed for the fields of Iowa and Minnesota, where they will indulge in a little shooting and rural recreations.

—J. W. Bintliff, the book-keeper of the Merchants' and Mechanics' Savings Bank, started last evening for DePere, where this evening he will be joined in holy wedlock to Miss Lizzie E. Battle. The ceremony is to be performed by Rev. T. P. Sawin at the residence of the bride's parents. The many friends of both parties will wait impatiently for a chance to express the congratulations and well-wishes felt by all.

HELD FOR TRIAL.

U. J. Terry, who was arrested for stealing a revolver from Deputy Sheriff Gladden, of Edgerton, had his examination before Justice Nolan yesterday. He admitted that he went to Gladden's room, and took the revolver, but says he went there just to wake him up, and that when he found he was sleeping so soundly he took the revolver as a joke, expecting to return it. He says he was full of drink at the time. Justice Nolan seemed to think his story a little light in view of the other testimony, and held him for trial to the Circuit Court in the sum of $200, and being unable to furnish bail he was locked up. Terry has been at work on Mr. Tarrant's farm for two months past, and came to this city Saturday last.

A LIVELY RUN.

Shortly before noon to-day as a team belonging to Patrick Carney, and driven by his two daughters, was coming down East Milwaukee street, the wagon hit upon the horses heels and started them into a run. They came along at a furious gait, and just in front of them was C. E. Moseley's horse and spring wagon, driven by Seth Cushman. Carney's team tumbled right into this, and sent the tongue crashing through the box of Moseley's vehicle, striking against the front seat, and throwing young Cushman out. The young ladies in Carney's wagon were also thrown out, and there was wild confusion for a few minutes. Moseley's horse started for a run of his own, but was soon checked, and quiet restored. It was found that young Cushman was not hurt, though badly shaken up. The Misses Carney seemed to have fared worse, and on being removed to their home a surgeon was called. An examination showed that one of them had a sprained ankle, and the other was suffering from the concussion, but no bones were broken, or serious injuries received. Moseley's wagon was badly smashed.

Coughing in a shady grove, sat his Juliana,
Lozenges he gave his love Ipecacuana.
About three score and ten, his love out of the box did pick,
Then leaning very hard on him, said 'Dearest I feel sick,'
He must have been a blamed fool, such remedy to try,
When Thomas' Electric Oil, he anywhere could buy.

THE WEATHER.

REPORTED BY PRENTICE & EVENSON, DRUGGISTS.

The thermometer at 6 o'clock last night stood at 96 degrees above; at 1 o'clock a. m. to-day at 81 degrees above; at 7 o'clock a. m. at 73 degrees above; and at 1 o'clock p. m. at 91 degrees above. Partly cloudy.

The indications to-day are for the upper lake region, stationary or higher barometer, lower temperature, winds mostly from north to west, partly cloudy weather, and local rains.

Just heard from Tom Harris of Virginia City, Nevada he writes, that the doctors had given up all hopes of saving him he had Albumenaria in the worst form, was induced to try Spring Blossom, he is now bossing his Stamping Mill as usual.

FLORAL BEAUTIES.

We recently had the pleasure of visiting the gardens of Mrs. A. H. Caldwell, on the Edgerton road, and there found a great variety of all kinds of plants and shrubs, sending forth flowers of all shades and shapes. Among the attractive sights is a splendid showing of those beautiful flowering hydrangeas, which have such lovely white blossoms, and are so handsome for use on cemetery lots, and to beautify the lawns at home. We also noticed a creeping honeysuckle, which is very hardy and holds its beautiful foliage throughout the year, and has a blossom which on first blooming is white, but later changes to a beautiful golden shade. Mrs. Caldwell has taken great pains to get choice varieties of all the leading plants, and those wishing any plants, will do well to give her a call.

ENLARGING THEIR BORDERS.

There is one thing that Janesville can stand right up on a barrel and crow over, and that is the size and style of its business blocks. It can challenge cities of even twice its size. Among the largest of the large and the handsomest of the handsome, is that owned and occupied by M. C. Smith & Son as a clothing house. It may seem big talk, but there isn't its equal in the State for size, light, convenience and attractiveness. And yet they don't seem to be happy, and are reaching out for more worlds to conquer. They are just now annexing one more province, it being the store formerly occupied by Anderson's barber shop. They are connecting it with the main store by cutting a large archway through the wall, and will occupy this additional space for their merchant tailoring department exclusively, a branch of their business which has been growing so rapidly and has now grown so large as to necessitate a separate and good sized store of itself. Here they will display their styles and cloths, which will this fall comprise a larger and more complete assortment than has ever before been handled even by them, and that is saying much indeed.

This new extension will give them much more space in their main store for their immense stock of ready made clothing, and will allow them to use the basement floor exclusively for trunks, etc., and the storage of duplicate stock. This enterprising firm will introduce new features in their business this fall, which they expect will benefit their customers and themselves alike. They are not stingy about their pains, and seem set upon holding all the trade they have, and getting all they can, and enterprise and square dealing are doing it.

Frank, the junior member of the firm went East early in the fall, for reasons which are evident from their advertisements, and as a result the boxes and bales of new goods have been tumbled into their store by the truck-load for several days past. By the first of next week they expect to have everything in shipshape, except overcoats, and this isn't very good overcoat weather. Delaney, who has charge of the tailoring department, is pushing along with full head of steam, but there is still plenty of work ahead, and those wanting suits made to order, had better have their measures taken by him at once.

OBITUARY.

MRS. C. W. SEAVER.

Mrs. C. W. Seaver, the announcement of whose death appeared last week, in the Fond du Lac papers, was so long a resident of Janesville, and has always retained the warm esteem and friendship of so many of our older citizens, that something more than the mere line which records her death seems appropriate. Catharine Taylor was born at Leroy, New York, and received, at Miss Ingham's Seminary, at that place, what were considered at that time, and in that section of the country, the best educational advantages for her sex. Married at the age of eighteen, she accompanied her husband, first to Ohio, and afterwards to the then Territory of Wisconsin. They settled in Janesville in 1847, and remained residents here until 1868. Mr. Seaver having removed his business to Fond du Lac, his wife, in the autumn of that year, rejoined him at that place, which remained her home until she passed away on the evening of August 11th. Mrs. Seaver was in her youth, gifted with more than ordinary beauty, and united with it much artistic talent. Those who remember the numerous social entertainments devised during the war, to raise money for the Sanitary fund, will recall her quick fancy in inventing, and rare taste in executing, some original attraction, when tableaux and charades failed to "draw." In later years her artistic taste found a channel in the study of drawing and painting, which she pursued with an enthusiasm and skill, rare in an amateur. Of a quick and impulsive temperament, her heart was at once moved by any sorrow or trouble of those around her, and if more than sympathy was needed, her hand was as open as her heart. She was very devoted as a mother, and to that devotion which abjured all thought of self, was due the extreme prostration, which rendered her unable to resist the fatal disease which attacked her. Her long residence here of twenty-one years, commencing when Janesville was in its youth, identified her with a large circle of our earlier residents, many of whom remain to cherish her memory, though time has thinned their numbers. Natures so warm and sympathetic as hers, fill a larger place in our lives than we know of until death comes, and we almost feel as if a part of ourselves had descended with them, into the open grave. * *

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

At the meeting of Oriental Lodge No. 22, Knights of Pythias, held Tuesday night, the following resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, It has pleased Almighty God in His sovereign will and pleasure to remove from us by death our beloved Brother Knight and Companion in Arms, Chester S. Crosby, therefore

Resolved, That in this affliction we bow in submission to the will of Him in whose hands are the issues of life and of death; and humbly pray that through this sorrow we may be led to a higher appreciation of life and its duties.

Resolved, That in the departure of our Brother we mourn the loss of a brave man, a watchful friend, a prudent counselor; and one who by his gentle ways, his Knightly spirit and courteous bearing, had endeared himself to us as brethren, and exemplified to our Order the real virtues of a true Knight—"sans peur et sans reproche."

Resolved, That on Tuesday evening, September 14, special memorial service be held in the Lodge in commemoration of our deceased Brother.

Resolved, That our deepest sympathy is hereby extended to the desolate wife and little one, and to the bereaved friends of the deceased, and our prayer is that God may show forth to them all His tender mercy and the consolation of His eternal loving kindness.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family of the deceased, and that the customary order on the death of a brother Knight be now carried out.

Has been acquired by candid, honest dealing and years of successful practice.

My practice, not one of experiment, but founded on the laws of Nature, with years of experience and evidence to sustain it, does not tear down, make sick to make well; no harsh treatment, no trifling, no flattering. We know the cause and the remedy needed; no guess work, but knowledge gained by years of experience in the treatment of Chronic Diseases exclusively; no encouragement without a prospect. Candid in our opinions, reasonable in our charges, claim not to know everything, or cure everybody, but do lay claim to reason and common sense. We invite the sick, no matter what their ailment, to call and investigate before they abandon hope, make interrogation and decide for yourselves; it will cost nothing as consultation is free. FALL OF 1880.

TEACHER'S INSTITUTE

—AND—

EXAMINATIONS.

For Second District, Rock County.

The Annual Teachers' Institute will convene for a two weeks' session at Milton, August 23, 1880, at 10 o'clock A. M., under charge of Prof. J. Q. EMERY, formerly of the Ft. Atkinson Public Schools; and here permit me to say that, while Prof. Emery may be a new man to many of us, he is not new to the business of teaching, where he takes rank among the ablest educators of the State, and as an Institute conductor, he is conceded to be the peer of any.

Under his management then, we may already regard our Institute as a success from the beginning, and feel a desire to be in the midst of it, experiencing its supervision and instruction, its discipline and drill, its suggestions and counsel, which, received in the right spirit, cannot but render us better fitted to make the work of the coming year a marked improvement over that of the last.

But remember, Teachers, there can be no Institute worthy the name, without your presence and co-operation. You should come prepared to stay during the full term, as only by this means can our district maintain its present prestige, and keep abreast with the advancement now being made everywhere throughout the State in school work.

Without claiming to be the banner county in educational matters, we should not consent to rank second to any other in the State.

The design now is to hold an exhibition, or fair, of school work during the ensuing year; and it is respectfully suggested and urged upon teachers to prepare with special reference to this end.

The display will consist of specimens in penmanship, lettering, mapping, compositions, examination papers, &c., with a view of testing the efficiency and quality of the work done in the schools. This matter may be made the subject of more extended and detailed notice hereafter; but this much is thought necessary at this time to call your attention to it. It is hoped that this purpose will meet your hearty approval.

EXAMINATIONS.

Special Examinations will be held September 3d and 4th.

Regular Examinations will be held as follows:

AT AFTON, Sept. 29th and 30th.
AT CLINTON, Oct. 5th and 6th.
AT MILTON, Oct. 20th and 21st.

Examinations will commence promptly at nine o'clock in each case.

The enunciations in regard to transfers, renewals, and permits, contained in the Spring notices, will be rigidly adhered to. A cordial invitation to be present at both the Institute and examinations is extended to the public generally.

WM. JONES,
CLINTON, Aug. 2, 1880. County Sup't.

COUNTY COURT OF ROCK COUNTY.—In the Matter of the Estate of Henry P. Culver, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition of Harriet L. Marshall, the administrix of said estate, not administered with the will of said deceased, setting forth the amount of personal estate that has come to her hands, and the disposition thereof; the amount of debts outstanding against said deceased, and a description of all the real estate of which the said deceased died seized, and the condition and value thereof, and praying that license be to her granted to sell the real estate remaining unsold. And it appearing by said petition that there is not sufficient personal estate in the hands of said administratrix to pay said debts, and that it is necessary in order to pay the same to sell said real estate; it is therefore ordered that all persons interested in said estate appear before this court, at the office of the Judge thereof, in the city of Janesville, in said county, at the next September Term, to be held on the first Tuesday of September next, at 10 o'clock a. m., then and there to show cause why license should not be granted to the said administratrix to mortgage, lease or sell so much of the real estate of said deceased as shall be necessary to pay such debts.

And it is further ordered that a copy of this order be personally served on all persons interested in said estate, and residing in this county, at least twenty days before the said day of hearing, and be published for at least four successive weeks prior to said day of hearing, once a week, in the Janesville Gazette, a daily newspaper published at said city.—Dated August 2d, 1880.
